

Officer-in-Charge UKMTO Dubai

Lieutenant Commander Peter Harriman joined the Royal Navy as a Radio Operator in 1979 and has enjoyed a diverse range of sea, shore and overseas appointments throughout his career.

In his early years he served in various HM ships, taking part in the Falklands Campaign of 1982 on-board HMS Arrow, a Type 21 Frigate. Rising to the rank of Chief Radio Supervisor, in 1996 he was commissioned and entered the Britannia Royal Navy College as a Special Duties officer (Communications).

As an officer his appointments have included Capability Management at Navy Command HQ, Portsmouth UK and overseas jobs in Canada, Italy and Portugal, the latter involved in NATO's Counter Piracy mission – Operation Ocean Shield.

Lt Cdr Harriman is currently the Officer-in-Charge of UK Maritime Trade Operations in Dubai, arriving in post on 6 Jan 14. He is charged with supporting the Maritime Component Commander in Bahrain, acting as his Subject Matter Expert for Maritime Trade Operations within the Middle Eastern Joint Operating Area.
